SECTION 1 - AIR

Since the late 1940's, the airfreight industry has witnessed steady growth in response to innovations in aircraft design, an increasing demand for speedy transit times and the widespread growth of wide-bodied jets and all-cargo aircraft options for commercial cargo shipments.

With growing industry expectations for quick delivery times and the preference for the kind of personal attention to cargo shipments now offered by air carriers, many companies, large and small, are willing to take on the added expense of air cargo for their international shipments. In fact, increasingly, airfreight can provide a highly economical, cost-effective means of shipping goods to international markets.

In terms of Air Service to/from this province, it is possible to book to destinations directly to Europe and other destinations worldwide through major hubs such as Montreal, and Toronto. However, with ever changing schedules and airline strategies, it is strongly suggested that one contacts the prospective carrier/agent prior to booking. As schedules and routings change frequently it is necessary to be knowledgeable of current availability… always ask.

Introduction to Airfreight Terminology

Air Cargo Agent: a type of freight forwarder who specializes in air cargo and acts for airlines. Generally, the air cargo agent is registered with the International Air Transport Association, IATA

Air Freight Forwarder: a type of freight forwarder who specializes in air cargo and performs consolidation of consignments in its own name.

Air Waybill (AWB): A bill of landing that covers both international and domestic flights transporting goods to a specified destination.

Break Even Weight: the Weight at which it is cheaper to charge the lower rate for the next higher weight-break, times the minimum weight indicated, than it is to charge the higher rate for actual weight of the shipment

Cargo Transfer: Cargo arriving at a point by one flight and continuing with a connecting flight from the same or connecting carrier.

Carrier, Common: A public or privately owned firm or corporation that transports the goods of others over land, sea, or through the air, for a stated freight rate.

Chargeable Weight: The chargeable weight is either the actual gross weight or volume weight of a consignment or the minimum weight of an applicable rate, whichever is higher. The chargeable weight is used to calculate the weight charge (chargeable weight x rate per kg/lb = weight charge).

Charter: Originally meant a flight where a shipper contracted hire of an aircraft from an airline. Has usually come to mean any non-scheduled commercial service for aircraft operating under a charter contract.

Class Rate: A class of goods or commodities is a large grouping of various items under one general heading. All items in the group make up a class. The freight rates that apply to all items in the class are called class rates.

Combi: An aircraft configured to carry both passenger and air cargo on the main deck (pallet or container capacity on its main deck as well as in its belly holds).

Consolidation: Several individual consignments grouped together and covered under one Air Waybill (Master air waybill) with separate House Air Waybills issued by the forwarder for each consignment.

Declared Value for Carriage: The value of goods declared to the carrier for the purposes of fixing carrier liability for loss, damage or delay.

Declared Value for Customs: Value of goods declared by Shipper for customs purposes.

Express Cargo: Particular time-sensitive shipments, requiring expedited customs clearance. Also defined as traffic requiring reliable, time measured transport, normally on a door-to-door basis, using simple documentation, for an inclusive price with one carrier exercising integrated information control.

Forwarder: Person expediting goods to the consignee on behalf of the shipper; may be an agent or company who performs services (such as receiving, trans-shipping or delivering) designed to assure and facilitate the passage of goods.

Minimum Charge: lowest amount charged for any consignment between points irrespective of weight or volume.

Net weight: weight of goods excluding all packing

No Show: A person who reserves space on an aircraft but neither uses nor cancels the reservation.

Part Shipment: A shipment which is transported not in total but in two or more parts.

Perishable Cargo: Commodities liable to deteriorate or perish due to change in climate, temperature, altitude or other normal exposure or length of time in transit.

Prorate: A portion of a joint rate or charge obtained by the division of a joint rate or charge between the carriers concerned, on an agreed basis.

Routing: The designation of a route.

Short-Shipped: Cargo indicated in a manifest but not loaded or not arrived at final destination.

Valuation Charge: A Charge for goods based on value for carriage

Volume Charge: a charge for carriage based on volume

Volume Weight: the chargeable weight of a consignment based on volume and calculated by multiplying greatest length by greatest width by greatest height.

SECTION 2 - RAIL

For manufacturers and exporters on the island of Newfoundland, rail transport is a rarely used option due to the lack of a provincial railway service. For Labrador companies, the Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway runs from Sept Iles Quebec to Wabush Mines, Labrador City and Schefferville Quebec.

In general, rail transport is an option used more frequently for commodities such as wheat and grains, coal, potash, sulphur, copper, nickel and iron ores, sand and stone, piggyback and container traffic.

Conversely, rail may provide viable options for companies of this province when considering inter-modal strategies. (shipping via various modes/methods of transport within a single movement). This has been used recently for handling voluminous loads through Montreal/Halifax (rail/vessel), but one must exercise caution as increasing costs can occur due to additional handling requirements.

Introduction to Rail Terminology

Box Cars: ranging in length from 40’ to 52’ can be insulated, heated, refrigerated, compartmentalized or special use.

Gondolas: top-loading containers from bulk cargo

Hopper Cars: enclosed bulk and liquid cargoes

Stock Cars: for live animals

Automobile Cars: usually double or triple deckers

Trailers: (Trailers being loaded on Flat Cars or TOFC): usually 20’ to 45’ long with racks, open tops and special use available. This equipment is used for intermodal transport in which trailers units are lifted, complete with wheels and placed "piggyback" on a flatbed trailer.

Flat Cars: (for Container on Flat Car or COFC movements) wherein a marine container is stuffed at the exporter's premises, shipped overland by road or rail to the port of exit, shipped overseas to Canada then moved by rail to an inland depot. Flat Car equipment may include machinery, bulkhead, log carriers and special use equipment as well.

SECTION 3 - OCEAN

Ocean Freight, for Atlantic Canadians in general, and Newfoundland & Labrador manufacturers and exporters in particular, is an effective transportation option, given our ocean geography.

Today, exporters have access to a variety of ocean transportation service providers with global networks capable of effectively handling cargo shipments of any size to any destination in the world. Full Container Load (FCL) shipments allow ocean carriers to offer lower cost and improved service resulting in overall savings of both time and money. Less than Container Load (LCL) shipments can be consolidated to take advantage of reduced tariffs for your ocean freight consignments. For manufacturers and/or exporters to compete more effectively in the global marketplace, ocean freight can provide a logical transportation solution.

Introduction to Ocean Terminology

Bill of Lading (B/L): A document that establishes the terms of a contract between a shipper and a transportation company. It serves as a document of title, a contract of carriage and a receipt for goods.

Clean B/L: A B/L which bears no superimposed clause or notation which declares a defective condition of the goods and/or the packaging.

Express B/L: Non-negotiable B/L where there are no hard copies of originals printed.

House B/L: B/L issued by a freight forwarder or consolidator covering a single shipment containing the names, addresses and specific description of the goods shipped.

Intermodal B/L: B/L covering cargo moving via multimodal means. Also known as Combined Transport B/L, or Multimodal B/L.

Negotiable B/L: The B/L is a title document to the goods, issued “to the order of” a party, usually the shipper, whose endorsement is required to effect is negotiation. Thus, a shipper's order (negotiable) B/L can be bought, sold, or traded while goods are in transit and is commonly used for letter-of-credit transactions. The buyer must submit the original B/L to the carrier in order to take possession of the goods.

Original B/L: The part of the B/L set that has value, especially when negotiable; rest of set are only informational file copies. Abbreviated as OBL.

Container: A truck trailer body that can be detached from the chassis for loading into a vessel, a rail car or stacked in a container depot. Containers may be ventilated, insulated, refrigerated, flat rack, vehicle rack, open top, bulk liquid or equipped with interior devices. A container may be 20 feet, 40 feet, 45 feet, 48 feet or 53 feet in length, 8’0” or 8’6” in width, and 8’6” or 9’6” in height.

Demurrage: A penalty charge against shippers or consignees for delaying the carrier's equipment beyond the allowed free time. The free time and demurrage charges are set forth in the charter party or freight tariff.

FCL: Abbreviation for "Full Container Load."

Flat Rack/Flat Bed Container: A container with no sides and frame members at the front and rear. Container can be loaded from the sides and top.

Insulated Container: A container insulated on the walls, roof, floor, and doors, to reduce the effect of external temperatures on the cargo.

LCL: Abbreviation for "Less than Container Load." The quantity of freight which is less than that required for the application of a container load rate. Loose Freight.

Mafis (Maffie)/Roll Trailers: Units mounted on wheels with solid tires (not pneumatic) designed for bulky and heavy cargo and are used for pier to pier use only.

Open Top Container: A container fitted with a solid removable roof, or with a tarpaulin roof so the container can be loaded or unloaded from the top.

Types of Ships...

Bulk Carriers: All vessels designed to carry bulk cargo such as grain, fertilizers, ore, and oil.

Combination Passenger and Cargo Ships: Ships with a capacity for 13 or more passengers.
Freighters: Breakbulk vessels both refrigerated and unrefrigerated, containerships, partial containerships, roll-on/roll-off vessels, and barge carriers.

Barge Carriers: Ships designed to carry barges; some are fitted to act as full containerships and can carry a varying number of barges and containers at the same time. At present this class includes two types of vessels LASH and Sea-Bee.

General Cargo Carriers: Breakbulk freighters, car carriers, cattle carriers, pallet carriers and timber carriers.

Full Containerships: Ships equipped with permanent container cells, with little or no space for other types of cargo.

Partial Containerships: Multipurpose containerships where one or more but not all compartments are fitted with permanent container cells. Remaining compartments are used for other types of cargo.

Roll-on/Roll-off vessels: Ships specially designed to carry wheeled containers or trailers using interior ramps.

Tankers: Ships fitted with tanks to carry liquid cargo such as: crude petroleum and petroleum products; chemicals, Liquefied gasses(LNG and LPG), etc.

SECTION 4 - ROAD

Many advantages are available to manufacturers and exporters by moving their shipments via road transport. One advantage is the availability of a wide variety of trucking options, carriers and specialized equipment, capable of handling many different cargoes.

Truck transport links with all other modes, so moving goods intermodally, from truck to ocean to truck (ro/ro, etc.), from air to truck or from truck to rail ("piggy backs") etc. creates a considerable variety of choices for door-to-door shipping. In terms of meeting scheduling demands, trucks are generally available to move your goods with flexible scheduling and fast delivery timeframes. In addition, trucks are able to get your goods to your buyer's door, regardless of whether that destination is served by rail, air or water transport, along a free choice of routes.

Introduction to Road Terminology

Axle: Structural component to which wheels, brakes and suspension are attached. Drive axles are those with powered wheels. Front axle is usually called the steer axle. Pusher axles are unpowered and go ahead of drive axles. Rear axles may be drive, tag or pusher types. Tag axles are unpowered and go behind drive axles.

Bridge Formula: A bridge protection formula used by federal and state governments to regulate the amount of weight that can be put on each of a vehicle's axles, and how far apart the axles (or groups of axles) must be to legally carry a given weight.

Cartage Company: Company that provides local (within a town, city or municipality) pick-up and delivery.

Cube (Cubic Capacity): Interior volume of a truck body, semitrailer or trailer, measured in cubic feet.

Doubles (Twins, Twin Trailers): Combination of a tractor and two semitrailers connected in tandem by a converter dolly.

DryVan: A trailer with an enclosed body; not refrigerated.

Drop Deck Trailer: A flatbed type trailer with a belly section the same or lower than the TRAILER height of the axle(s).

Flat Bed: Either mounted on a cab & chassis or a type of semitrailer, this body has no sides and comes in various lengths. It is usually constructed of steel or aluminum with a wood plank base.

Lowboy: Open flat-bed trailer with a deck height very low to the ground, used to haul construction equipment or bulky or heavy loads.

LTL (Less-Than-Truckload): A quantity of freight less than that required for the application of a truckload (TL) rate; usually less than 10,000 pounds.

LTL Carrier: Trucking company which consolidates less-than-truckload cargo for multiple destinations on one vehicle.

Reefer: Refrigerated trailer with insulated walls and a self-powered refrigeration unit. Most commonly used for transporting food.

Team (Driver Team): Team of two drivers who alternative driving and resting.

Tri-Axle: Truck, tractor or trailer with three axles grouped together at the rear.

Sufferance and Customs Bonded Warehouses

Warehousing or storing your shipment:
After your carrier reports a shipment to us, you may want to move it inland to a licensed warehouse facility for customs release. This means that goods can be moved beyond the border or an airport without having cleared customs, but remain under customs control.

Sufferance warehouse:
Sufferance warehouses are privately owned and operated facilities licensed by the CCRA for the short-term storage and the examination of imported goods pending release from customs. Sufferance warehouse keepers charge user fees to their clients for storage and handling. Your goods may stay in a sufferance warehouse for up to 40 days.

For details, see Memorandum D4-1-4, Customs Sufferance Warehouses.

Bonded warehouse:
You can place both imported and domestic goods destined for export in a customs bonded warehouse for up to four years if, for example, you imported them on a consignment basis, if they serve as inventory, or if you plan to export them. These facilities provide you with a complete deferral of all duties (including the GST) while the goods remain in the warehouse and if you then export the goods. Duties are payable only on the portion of goods that enter into the Canadian economy.

Goods may undergo the following value-added alterations in a bonded warehouse:

- labeling and marking;
- packaging and repackaging;
- testing and separating defective from prime quality goods;
- diluting, cutting, slitting, trimming, and filing; and
- disassembling or reassembling goods which have been disassembled for packing, handling, or transportation.

- Bonded warehouses are one component of the duty deferral program

SECTION 5 – SERVICE SUPPLIERS

Following are some sources of service and expertise you may find useful as you venture into the global marketplace. By thinking strategically and locating the right partners, you will be well-poised to plan the best transportation practices for your particular business, regardless of the volume and complexity of your trading activities.

Freight Forwarder Introduction

The services offered by freight forwarders are intended to facilitate logistics for any business, large or small, moving cargo domestically or internationally. By developing a relationship with a reputable freight forwarder, manufacturers and exporters can take advantage of the expertise of a service partner who understands their business and can help them make cost-effective and time saving decisions regarding their overall transportation strategy. As a value-added service provider, your freight forwarder should ideally offer a recognized quality standard and established Health, Safety and Environmental policies. It is also strongly suggested that you consider the services of a Freight Forwarder that is a member of and subscribes to the policies of the Canadian International Freight Forwarders Association (CIFFA). (See http://www.ciffa.com)

When planning your transportation strategy, it is certainly beneficial to have the support of a logistics company able to provide a full range of services. A single source of supply for these services brings knowledge of your total transportation program and allows you to take advantage of integration for your customs and freight programs, if your forwarder can also provide customs brokerage services.

Some freight forwarders offer a full start-to-finish service which will, in fact, include the pick-up of goods from your warehouse right through to loading the goods at your purchaser's location with all logistics/transportation services provided for in-between.

Your freight forwarder's job is to ensure that your goods reach their destination reliably, efficiently and in a cost-effective manner. In order for you to keep track of your shipments, look for a freight forwarder whose software allows you to track your shipments via the Internet.

Additionally, check out your forwarder's network of worldwide agents and ensure that all Freight Forwarding options are explored, whether via air, ocean, rail or road or inter-modally.

Customs Broker Introduction

Your customs broker provides regulatory and legislative expertise when you move goods globally. Essentially, the role of the customs broker is to facilitate the smooth movement of goods through Canadian international customs, while maintaining your duty and tax exposure at the compliant, legal minimum.

The knowledge required to effect compliant trade practices requires a commitment on the part of customs brokers to maintain current expertise in all legislation surrounding importing and exporting. Your customs broker should pay close attention to customs compliance issues as well as considering the need for prompt movement of your goods. Knowledge of the correct tariff classification for your commodities will help minimize your duty and tax exposure.

For exporters, your customs broker can help you ensure that you follow compliant export reporting requirements in terms of both the manner and timing of export reporting to the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency. Your customs broker will also facilitate the accurate completion of all documentary requirements, including permits, invoicing, bills of lading, certificates of origin and other special certification, such as consular invoices. Additionally, your broker can offer valuable advice and assistance in meeting the requirements for security and bonding for USA-bound shipments as well as advising on the special requirements of other foreign destinations around the globe.

Ships Chandler Introduction (Ships Supplies)

This business specializes in the provision of every conceivable item of ship's supplies for the offshore and shipping industries, from food, clothing, tools, and equipment right through to bonded stores, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
